Virginia Repertory Theatre Opens the Signature Season with 1776, the Musical

Starring Scott Wichmann as John Adams

Richmond, VA -- Virginia Repertory Theatre announces the opening of 1776, The Musical, at the Sara Belle and Neil November Theatre, 114 West Broad Street on Friday, September 30, 2016 with two previews on September 28 and 29. The show runs through October 23, 2016. Often referred to as "America's Musical," 1776 is a lively, funny, and momentous story of the second Continental Congress and the writing of the Declaration of Independence. Peter Stone and Sherman Edwards wrote the musical in the years leading up to America's bicentennial. It debuted on Broadway in 1969 and won the Tony Award for Best Musical.

Virginia Rep will partner with the Virginia Historical Society to provide related talkbacks and discussions throughout the run of the show. Visit http://va-rep.org/_1776-november-theatre-richmond.html for details.

Director Debra Clinton is thrilled to work with such an outstanding cast. "I see 1776 as an opportunity for people to revisit the history of our country and to reflect on what brings us together as Americans. Scott Wichmann is fulfilling a lifelong dream of playing John Adams in 1776. "I have been waiting all my life for this role. Doing 1776 is like playing for the Red Sox." Other recent credits include Black Stache in last fall's Peter and The Starcatcher, Last of the Red Hot Lovers, Say Goodnight Gracie, Dirty Rotten Scoundrels, and The Producers.
